The Forgotten
 Belgians

According to this

BBC News article a quarter of a million Belgian refugees came to the UK during World War 1, but amazingly little trace remains of them today. By the end of 1919 over 90% of them had returned home - although a few married Britons and were assimilated into the population.

 findmypast added over 500,000 records to their site, including Dorset Marriages, London Poor Law records, Northamptonshire Hearth Tax records, and Archbishop of York Marriage Licenses - and promise to bring more records each Friday.

English & Welsh maps at the National Library of Scotland

For some time the National Library of Scotland has offered access to historic ordnance survey maps for England & Wales, but now they've gone further - you can overlap 19th century maps with modern maps or Google aerial photographs. It's a great opportunity to see where your ancestors lived in relation to modern maps - and, if you're lucky, to be able to visit their homes.

The maps are free to search and view – <http://maps.nls.uk/geo/explore> You can view maps side by side or overlay if you prefer.

October Meeting

The computer 'talked' to the projector and the Power Point presentation was successful on Easter in Crete. This is a very serious religious festival and more important than Christmas. The members of the Greek Orthodox church certainly enjoy meat and dairy products after abstaining for the week (or the whole of Lent). before Easter Monday. The greeting to everyone after midnight on Easter Sunday is "Christ Has Risen" Rosalie McLaren displayed a large 'custom photograph' family book of an original scrapbook which was published in USA for $100 for 100 pages, and is available to the family to download as an Ebook for $10., or printed copy.

Be aware USA A4 size is shorter and smaller than NZ A4 paper.

Did you know ???

Microfiche deaths from 1984 – 1900 have the deceased birthdate at the right. The numbers: 03111936 indicate the person was born 3 November 1936. It is an invaluable source with the RGO 100 year embargo on births.

The scrapbooks of Southland Times death notices - 1976 - 2014, thanks to early members foresight. They are situated on the bottom shelf at the right, If you are looking for death notices of local people before that date, try to define the date by:

- a will or/probate on Archives site
- headstone in the cemetery
- Hokonui Heritage data base, and filing system.
- Search the Matura Ensign papers which start 1883

Understanding the 1841 census

The most challenging of all the censuses is 1841: there's limited information about places of birth, the ages shown are mostly rounded down to the nearest multiple of 5, and the relationship between the members of a household isn't shown.

However, there's more information there than you might think - take a look at the instructions that were issued to enumerators, which you'll find on Lost Cousins site (thanks to Guy Etchells for making them available).

At the end of the names of each family draw a line thus / as in the Example. At the end of the names of the inmates in each house draw a double line thus //

WWI Photos Needed:

The onward Project is seeking photographs of every member of the New Zealand Expeditionary Force that served overseas during World War 1.

So far they have published two volumes of 8200 portraits and are at present working on a third volume. The project is after portraits of the 97,500 men and women, including nurses, who served.

Photographs can be emailed to –

Historical Tax Rolls

When the Crown collected taxes, it collected information about its subjects. Most taxation was levied from landowners until the late 18th century when government sought to broaden the tax base by taxing other forms of property.

THOMAS EDWARD BROAD & MARY TYRRELL STRATHERN

- by Vicky Newman (nee Broad)

I would like to introduce you to my grandparents.

Thomas Edward (or Ed, as he was known), was one of 10 children. He was born 11 May 1896 in Invercargill, to William Henry and Elizabeth Rose (nee Taylor)

Mary was born in Glasgow, Scotland 8 February 1903. Mary had 2 sisters and 6 brothers. Mary travelled with her siblings and mother to New Zealand in 1910, on the ship "Corinthic". Her father Hugh, came to New Zealand a year earlier on the ship "Paparoa".

My grandparents were married 2 September 1925 in Invercargill. They had 2 sons and 3 daughters.

Unfortunately for me my grandmother passed away in 1969, when I was only 15 months old.

Thomas Edward was a bricklayer. Each of his 6 brothers were also involved in the building industry, and at that time built many of the houses in Invercargill.

I remember visiting Granddad many times at his house in Grasmere. There was a huge hedge of gooseberries on the property, which we all loved to pick. I also recall climbing the many apple trees on the section.

Many of the Broad's lived in the same area of Invercargill, in fact 3 lived on the same street at one time!!

Ed passed away 29 July 1977 in Invercargill, in the house he had lived for 52 years.

My gt gt grandfather Charles Broad and his wife Sarah came to New Zealand in 1857. They lived in Wellington before moving to Invercargill. They had 7 children. One of their sons, Charles John along with his brother Alfred and JH Small started the firm Broad Smalls. This I imagine would be similar to what we now know as E Hayes & Sons in Invercargill.

One of my gt grandfathers' brothers, Alfred Evans was married to Helen Smith before she passed away, who along with her brother started H & J Smiths. My parents and I often joke that the next time we are in there shopping, we should ask for our family discount!!!

Late last year I was lucky enough to make contact with a relation in Queenstown. I mentioned to him that I would love to be able to get some photos from the earlier Broad families, as that is something I am lacking. He happily told me that he had a photo of my gt gt grandparents and their children hanging in his house, and would I like a copy? Would I what! I was very excited by this, and it is now something I treasure.

Finding time to do more research into my Broad genealogy has not come easy to me, especially now I have my own grandchildren to spend time with. But it is something I enjoy very much, and I get a buzz being able to pass on any information to my parents, and a dear Aunt who lives in Invercargill, and has been a great help to me. At 82 years old, she has the most amazing memory for people, names and dates and I always enjoy hearing her stories.

A relation living in Australia has been working on the Strathern side of my family, and is in the process of having a book printed. I look forward to getting hold of a copy of this later in the year.
